

To my one and only,

How can I fully express the blessing of having you in my life?

You mean more to me than you could ever know. You gave meaning to my life when I needed it most. I feel truly fortunate that our relationship has grown so much from when we first met. Even though we go through our ups and downs, I believe that we have come out of every struggle stronger and richer than ever before. We learn to share our emotions and understand each other.

To know that you will always be there for me and I will always be there for you. May we share many more years of love and adventure.

Thank you for making me feel so special.

Love you always and forever,
